What is the Higher Education Network?
The Discovery Education Higher Education Network supports accredited college and university partners by providing high quality and rigorous graduate courses that integrate innovations in educational technology and best practices in educational research and online learning engagement.

Why join this Growing Network?
Education is central to fostering intellectual curiosity, and at Discovery Education we have supported teachers around the world to engage and inspire their students for over 30 years.

Colleges and universities looking to leverage current, instructionally relevant, and engaging content designed for online learning environments that meet the demands of teachers’ busy schedules are collaborating via the Discovery Education Higher Education Network to ensure educators can meet the needs of all learners in person or at a distance.
Higher Education Network

Colleges and universities, each with a unique and independent identity, coming together for a common goal to foster the highest quality learning to help support teachers’ professional learning goals while integrating the best instructional practices and educational technology to support all learners.
